12 noon Wednesday 19 August  (online)

Fiona Fidler, HPS; Simine Vazire, Melbourne School of Psychological Sciences; Rachel Ankeny, Adelaide University
Reimagining trust in science – Panel discussion

12 noon Wednesday 26 August  (online)

Tiffany Shellam, Deakin University
Entangled knowledges: Kaartdjin, science and history in Robert Neill’s collection of fish

12 noon Wednesday 2 September  (online)

Kristian Camilleri, HPS, University of Melbourne
Pedagogy, Place and Personality: How the orthodoxy in Quantum Mechanics was established

12 noon Wednesday 9 September  (online)

Paul Siemers, HPS, University of Melbourne
The Internet of Things – an ontological investigation (completion seminar)

12 noon Wednesday 16 September  (online)

Louise Keogh, Melbourne School of Population and Global Health
Protecting moral integrity or re-claiming moral authority? Understanding the practice of conscientious objection in the context of liberal law reform in Victoria

All HPS seminars will be held online until further notice.
To receive the weblink, more information, up-to-date schedules, or a copy of this program, please visit hpsseminar.wordpress.com or email martin.bush@unimelb.edu.au
12 noon Wednesday 23 September  (online)

Roberta Pala, University of Sydney
Immunological memory

1 pm Wednesday 30 September  (online)

Ian Hesketh, Institute for Advanced Studies in the Humanities, UQ
The place of history in science: Reassessing the Darwinian revolution

12 noon Wednesday 7 October  (online)

John Byron, Queensland University of Technology
A culture of critique: The contribution of the humanities to scientific reform

12 noon Wednesday 14 October  (online)

Cordelia Fine, HPS, University of Melbourne
Whose dollars count? A feminist epistemological analysis of academic finance

12 noon Wednesday 21 October  (online)

David Batt, HPS, University of Melbourne
Depoliticisation, technical discourse, and paper money: A case study in the bank restriction period

12 noon Wednesday 28 October  (online)

Martin Leckey, HPS, University of Melbourne and John Bigelow, Monash University
The Pope’s daughter and the mixing bowl of creation

All HPS seminars will be held online until further notice.
To receive the weblink, more information, up-to-date schedules, or a copy of this program, please visit hpsseminar.wordpress.com or email martin.bush@unimelb.edu.au